

DEATH WAS VERY SUDDEN

Albert H. Grandy Dies at Lake Placid, N. Y.

NORFOLK NEWSPAPER MAN

Was Managing Editor of the Virginian-Pilot and President of the Virginian-Pilot Publishing Company. His Business Career.

(By Associated Press.)
NORFOLK, Va., August 5.—Albert H. Grandy, managing editor of the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot, and president of the Virginian-Pilot Publishing Company, died tonight of apoplexy, at White Face Inn, Lake Placid, N. Y., where he was summering with his family. His remains will be brought here for interment.

A little after 9 o'clock last night Major C. W. Grandy received a telegram announcing that his brother, Mr. Albert H. Grandy, who was with his family in the Adirondacks, had been seized with apoplexy and was critically ill. This painful and startling information was soon followed by another dispatch announcing Mr. Grandy's death.

Mr. Grandy was spending the summer at White Face Inn, Lake Placid, N. Y., where he joined Mrs. Grandy and his children about a month ago, for needed rest and recuperation. He had a severe attack of the grip last February which necessitated a trip to Florida and the West Indies. He returned home before recovering from this indisposition, and apparently to his friends afterwards, not having regained his usual strength and elasticity.

While but a few particulars of Mr. Grandy's fatal illness have so far been received in this city, owing to the lateness of the hour, it is known that he was resting in his hands, and he did not answer when he was called at the usual time, but was discovered to be ill, a physician was summoned at once. Everything possible was done to relieve him, but he passed away in a few hours.

His Career.
Mr. Grandy was the son of the late C. W. Grandy, Sr., a prominent resident of this city, and the founder of the well-known cotton firm of C. W. Grandy & Sons. He was in the sixty-first year of his age, having been born on the sixteenth year on the 25th of last March. He received the best educational advantages, and after the close of the civil war entered the firm with his father and brother. His business career was eminently successful, and he confined his interests and fine business abilities to mercantile pursuits until the fall of 1896, when he bought the Norfolk Pilot, which had run an unsuccessful career until it came into his hands.

On the 25th of March, 1896, a consolidation was effected between the Norfolk Virginian and the Pilot. From that time to Mr. Grandy's death the Virginian-Pilot newspaper was conducted with him as president of the company, managing editor and directing force and influence. As a newspaper publisher Mr. Grandy was able and aggressive, and stamped his individuality on the Virginian-Pilot in an uncommon degree. Though he took to the profession of journalism at an age when most men are thinking of retiring, and without previous experience, he was quick to master the details in all of their many branches, and was indefatigable in his attention to every department of the new and difficult enterprise which he had undertaken.

Mr. Grandy's literary cultivation was of great advantage to him as an editor, and this was displayed in his own editorial work and in inspiring that of his associates. In his church relations Mr. Grandy was an Episcopalian, and a vestment of Christ Episcopal Church, this city. He is survived by his wife, who is the daughter of Captain George C. Reed, of Norfolk, and by three children—Miss Bessie, Miss Gladys and Mr. Albert H. Grandy, Jr., who will arrive in Norfolk to-morrow evening, and the funeral arrangements will be announced later.

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., August 5.—Advices have been received from Bogota to the effect that the opponents of the canal treaty, fearing to allow the treaty to come to a definite vote in the two houses, and not wishing to assume direct responsibility for its rejection, have decided to filibuster until it is too late for ratifications to be exchanged, which must be by September 22.

PROGRESS OF THE SOUTH

It Is Not to Be Halted by Declines in Wall Street.

RAILWAY IMPROVEMENTS

The Southern Double-Tracking Seaboard Extending Its Line and the Louisville and Nashville Constructing Extensions.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

BALTIMORE, Md., August 5.—From many quarters come indications that the progress of the South declines in Wall Street. Two or three years of good prices for cotton have had a marked effect for prosperity in many Southern lines, which is reflected in a number of letters published last week in the Manufacturers' Record from hardware and machinery dealers in the cotton belt, among the first to feel the influence of better conditions of the farming class, comparative unaffected by the chills and fevers of the speculative centers of the country. Moreover, the actual work of material development is going on uninterrupted, and bids fair to rapidly expand with the turn of capital from speculative undertakings to legitimate business enterprises.

In support of this statement the Manufacturers' Record notes the following important facts: "First may be mentioned the recent announcement that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will make a $5,000,000 improvement at Altoona, Pa., erecting a great roundhouse, which, it is said, will be the largest in the world, besides a mammoth foundry plant and thousands of other improvements. Next is the awarding of the contract for building the Eastern extension of the Washington and Annapolis line of the Gould system, like those of the Baltimore and Ohio, and the Chesapeake and Ohio, and the Chesapeake and Potomac, and the Chesapeake and Delaware, and the Chesapeake and Maryland, and the Chesapeake and Virginia, and the Chesapeake and North Carolina, and the Chesapeake and South
